BARRE DAILY TIMES

Frank E. Langley, Publisher.

SATURDAY, JAN. 12, 1907.

And now the state of Maine is working up over the railroad pass question.

Barre's death rate for the year 1906 was 11.5 per thousand. We're getting to be a hardy lot.

Congratulations to Chief Judge John W. Rowell of the Vermont supreme court on the rounding out of a quarter century of service on the state's highest court. It has been a splendid work.

Will there be one or two coats of paint on the Vermont house at the Jamestown exposition?

Round four in the national House fight Thursday ended with the pugshaking hands and grinning sheepishly.

That was a costly prequel in Lancaster, Pa., yesterday, when a million dollars' worth of tobacco went up in smoke.

Comedy in the national House: "You call me a liar!" uttered in white heat; "Yesir," comes response; "They never call me that more'n once," in fierce stat-cato; they rush; they clinch—in a friendly handshake—and it's all over. The House grins. And it's all included in the same price of admission.

Charles E. Hughes of New York as a possible candidate for president looms up, but there will be the powerful argument against him that New York has no corner on the presidential market just yet.

It's a rare day when some mine doesn't cave in and entomb a score or more miners. What's the matter with the usual protection for those who consent to dig into the bowels of the earth, far removed from the light of the sun?
Are we getting careless?

VERMONTERS ABROAD.
Vermonters are given a chance to know what their brothers and sisters in Boston are doing through "The Green Book," published by the Vermont Association of Boston. The 1906 book, which is just off the press, is a handsome pamphlet bound in green and filled from cover to cover with matters of interest to native and adopted Vermonters. From it we learn that the association now numbers 641 members. The names, Boston address and birthplace of these members are included in a list which is printed in the year book. Nelson L. Sheldon is president of the association. The list of officers is of considerable local interest because four of the executive committee are Goddard seminary friends, including William R. Shipman, president of the board of trustees of the school, who is chaplain of the Boston Vermonters; Ira E. Kent, its secretary, Wade Keyes and Ralph A. Stewart. The record of the meetings during the past year is given in detail in the pamphlet, including the verbatim addresses. "The Green Book" shows that Vermonters who have found their lot in and around Boston have not lost interest in their native state. That Vermonters in other sections of the country are still mid-ful of the old state is shown by the list of fourteen similar associations, as published in the year book of the Boston association of Vermonters. The little state up here among the hills is the gainer through this fostering of the spirit of loyalty.
